

MLT Trustees - Ed Saville and Manny Manfred recognising learners for their fundraising efforts

Foreword

The Motivational Preparation College for Training (or MPCT as most will know it), comprises 3 separate components. These are The Military Preparation College, The Military Preparation School and the Sports & Exercise College. All of the students enrolled in these colleges are collectively referred to as Learners.

Learners at MPCT colleges are the main focus of our charity and our aims and charter support them in a variety of ways. At any one time there are over 1,000 Learners enrolled in the current 25 locations around the UK. There are a further 10 colleges planned for the coming year and this will significantly increase the number of Learners who will require our support and financial assistance.

Together with welfare assistance to the Learners, we provide specific educational opportunities. This is to help these young people from all types of backgrounds develop and succeed in an environment where the highest values and standards are reinforced by excellent MPCT instructional staff. 65% of the Instructors are veterans and act as outstanding role models for the Learners whilst they gain the essential skills necessary to pursue their chosen career paths.

Thank you for your support.

Manny Manfred. Chair of Trustees, Motivation & Learning Trust

Motivation & Learning Trust

The Trust acts as an enabler for young people who are or have been students of MPCT in the form of practical assistance in order to enhance their life chances in the challenging arena of employment and to enable them to participate fully in society as responsible, independent and mature adults.

We provide practical physical resources to enhance the opportunities of young people who are or have been students of MPCT in order to develop their skills and increase their participation within society and improve their employability.

For the public benefit we promote the extended education of students who are or have been students at MPCT in such ways as the trustees think fit. This includes, firstly, providing their education by providing travel opportunities to undertake historical visits to significant battlefields and militarily historical venues. Secondly, the Trust provides bespoke standalone educational opportunities as the trustees see fit in order to enhance the life chances of such students.

We act as a resource in advancing the education of young people who are or have been students of MPCT under the age of 25 years (and exceptionally other young people who would benefit from assistance) by developing their mental, physical and moral capabilities through team orientated physical activities over and beyond the core curriculum.

MLT needs your help in order to achieve its aims. With your help we can and will make a difference in the formative stages of the lives of the young people with whom we work.

MPCT Learners

Over 1,000 of these young people are enrolled at any one time in the three organisations that comprise the MPCT. They join for a variety of reasons, not just to improve their chances of joining the Military. They come from a variety of backgrounds and many have left school with few or no qualifications. Some have physical and or medical problems that will preclude them from military service. Alternatively, they may simply want to improve their educational grades or physical fitness, without the tedium of regular college attendance.

The world is a tough place for a teenager who perhaps has not had the best of starts in life. The lack of positive role-models during their childhood may have contributed to this poor start and poverty has certainly had an impact for many. However, they all have one thing in common – their determination to succeed at something! They are all volunteers so there is no compulsion. Discipline problems are greatly reduced as a result.

By utilising a similar framework to the armed services, MPCT's values & standards are reinforced by their ex-military instructors who are excellent role-models and can give advice on their development and career choices. To date, over 2,700 Learners have enlisted since the college has been operating and a further 8,000 have gone into further education, training or, more importantly, employment. Increasingly, organisations are actively targeting MPCT colleges to seek high calibre employees for a variety of positions. Three Learners are now in an apprenticeship scheme in South Wales.

As the number of Learners grows in line with the expansion of MPCT, there will undoubtedly be an increase in requests for welfare assistance from the MLT. Surprisingly the number of request are relatively low. I see this as a sign that Learners are taking control of their own lives and, with some help, are better able to make their way in this world of ours. Nonetheless, there is a need to sustain the level of Learner support that our charity can offer.

Educational trips to museums and overseas battlefield tours are just a few examples of the many ways we are able to develop these young people. Learning of the sacrifices made by others, so that they may thrive, is not only humbling but rewarding. All who take part in these activities benefit. Not only those who travel on the visits but those who receive interesting presentations back in the colleges, when they return.

Learners and MPCT staff are encouraged to raise funds for The Motivation & Learning Trust and they do this in many ways. They organise events such as bag-packing at local supermarkets, sponsored physical activities and unique one-off events such as carrying a fridge around the Isle of Wight!

We are all Learners but in different ways. These young people, with the guidance, training and development that they receive at MPCT Colleges, will undoubtedly go on to achieve great things and be better citizens. The Motivation and Learning Trust – "Our Learners Charity", will continue to provide support to these fine young people. Their support and fundraising efforts are greatly appreciated.

Patrons and Trustees

At MLT we value our friends and partners who share our mission and core values. We are fortunate to have the support of our diverse and talented Patrons who all have specialist knowledge, skills and experiences that enhance what we do to positively impact on young people's lives.

Our Patrons act as ambassadors for the Charity. They help increase the awareness of the good work done throughout the colleges and introduce us to new partners and supporters. Our Trustees work tirelessly in facilitating the funding and support that we provide to Learners.

Thank you to all of our Patrons and Trustees for your continued support.

Newport Galvanizers

Coming into contact with the MPCT Learners, MLT Trustee Ed Saville saw the benefits of their training and just how motivated they all were. In his capacity as General Manager of Wedge Galvanizers at their factory in Newport, Gwent, he felt certain that many of them had the skills and enthusiasm to be considered for his company's Apprenticeship scheme. Six months later we see three ex-Learners in their uniforms and, according to Ed, are progressing well in their chosen careers. Senior Management at Wedge have been so impressed with the calibre and qualities of MPCT Learners that they are expanding the scheme to their other factories within the UK. Since MPCT have been operating, they have reported over 8,000 Learner progressions for those not joining the Military. As a result of the association with MPCT, Wedge have made substantial contributions to our charity and continue to support our efforts.

Offshore Sailing

A group of MPCT Learners sponsored by The Motivation and Learning Trust were able to take part in an offshore sailing expedition. Sailing requires knowledge, ability and above all teamwork. This gave them an opportunity that otherwise they may never have had.

Who we've helped

Since its foundation in 2014 The Motivation and Learning Trust has made 55 grants totalling almost £56,000. Of these 18 were related to welfare issues and these have amounted to over £2000. Relieving Learner hardship is a priority and our dedicated welfare Trustee Steve Williams is ideally placed to source assistance from local councils in addition to MLT financial support. This is particularly important where homelessness is encountered and a long term solution is desirable.

Grants include £25,000 to part-fund a 4 day Battlefield Tour to France and Belgium in May 2018, and is for 90 Learners and staff from both English and Welsh MPCT colleges. A deposit has been paid for an additional tour scheduled to take place in October 2018

Here are some examples of how we, as a Charity, we have helped current and ex-Learners.

Michael Nothnagel
MPCT Newport College Learner

My name is Michael Nothnagel. I am 18 years of age and I've lived in Newport for the majority of my life. However, I was born in Johannesburg, South Africa and I was in the process of applying for British Citizenship when I joined the Military Preparation College in Raglan Barracks, Newport, after leaving school.

As long as I can remember I have wanted to join the Royal Marines and to prepare for this I have been attending MPCT Newport for almost 2 years. This has both improved my physical and mental capabilities and for example my confidence and general public speaking have improved drastically. Last year I was privileged to be asked to give my testimonial to a group of MPs at the Houses of Parliament in London. This is something I would not have even dreamt of being able to do before attending the college. My fitness has gone from doing barely nothing to getting a high B grade on my recent Potential Royal Marines Course in Lymington, Devon, and I am very proud of that.

Royal Marine Recruit training consists of 32 weeks of intense physical and mental preparation. During this time I will be taught basic life skills such as; how to wash, iron my kit, clean my weapon, and will have to get used to being up at early hours of the morning with little or no sleep. In the final weeks of the training I will complete the 4 commando tests required to become a Royal Marine; The Tarzan and assault course, the 9 mile speed march, the endurance course, and the 30 miles across Dartmoor, after which I will be awarded the coveted Green Beret and realise my dream.

Unfortunately my joining the Royal Marines was dependant on me having UK Citizenship and a British passport which has a total cost of over £1200. Though my parents were supportive, I was having difficulty in finding the funds. I was told that I may be able to ask for assistance from the MLT charity and I was encouraged to submit a bid.

The Motivation and Learning Trust has been instrumental in helping me to achieve my dream of joining the Royal Marines. By arranging an interest free loan to be repaid once I am earning enough money it has allowed me to submit a passport application and I now have a start date for me to commence recruit Training on the 4th of June this year.

I'd like to thank everyone who has helped me to achieve my dream, both in the college and the MLT. I aim to do the MLT and MPCT proud in my career within the marines.

Antony Smith

MPCT Newport College Learner

I'm Antony Smith I'm 17 and from Newport. I left school at 15 with average GCSES but before that I did Army Cadets for four years and had a lot of fun. I got to do a lot of cool things and I got to do most of the things that normal soldiers do like firing live rounds, Fieldcraft and a lot more. I also did my bronze and silver Duke of Edinburgh's award.

The best part of it all was that I got to meet all the main authority figures in NATO at the NATO summit at the Celtic Manor. I was lucky enough to get a invitation to be a guard of honor so I got to meet David Cameron, President Obama and the Prime Minister of Germany. Also I met a lot of officers in all different branches of the armed forces from all over the world including some special forces members.

After I left school I didn't know what to do to help me achieve my goal of becoming a Royal Marine. So, after a day of looking, I found MPCT and applied to join Newport College. 3 days later I started and haven't looked back. I've been here for just over a year and have meet a lot of VIPs such as the Mayor of Newport, The Lord Lieutenant and a lot of other people.

MPCT has helped me a lot with my fitness. I've gone from not doing anything to doing 60 press-ups , 85 sit-ups and pull-ups. I can get to level 14 out of 16 on the Beep Test fitness assessments. My 1.5 mile run time has gone from 16:50 to 9:00 minutes which is a great improvement. I also got the chance to go to the Royal Marine Training Centre and take part in a look at life. I got a B grade on this but without the help of the college this would not have been possible. It has also helped me a lot with my confidence. I used to suffer with mild social anxiety but after a lot of hard work I overcame it and I can now talk to anyone about anything.

My chosen job choice is to be a Royal Marine Commando. For this I will spend 32 weeks in The Commando Training Centre in Lympstone, Devon where, I will be doing basic soldiering, field craft, weapon handling and much more.

The MLT Charity has given me a lot. They helped me get my first set of kit and have given me a chance to go to Belgium and France in May for a battlefield tour. We will be staying in Ypres, where we will experience Mametz wood, the Menin Gate and the Thiepval memorial for the missing, and many more places. I am very grateful for this opportunity, It is going to be an amazing experience.

Whenever I get the chance, I help to raise money for the MLT. I have done every bag pack that Newport college have done since I joined and will continue to do so until I leave. They have helped so many people like me and are still doing it so I feel like it's the least I can do. I would like to say thank-you on behalf of all the people they have helped, not only in my college but colleges in all locations.

Dan Sheen

Former MPCT Learner and Veteran

Beneficiary of a Motivation & Learning Trust Grant

In 1999, Dan applied to join the army but was deferred due to an asthma condition as a child. He was encouraged to join the Military Preparation Course in Cardiff which is part of the MPCT we know today. He benefited greatly from the physical and outdoor activities but recalls he was less keen on the classroom work. He persevered, and in 2000 was accepted into the army and, after training joined the Royal Welsh Fusiliers.

With 8 years training under his belt and qualifications for the rank of Sergeant gained, his career was progressing really well. Unfortunately Dan, whilst on operations in Afghanistan in 2008, stepped on the pressure plate of an improvised explosive device placed by a terrorist.

The injuries he sustained that day changed his life forever. He had lost his left leg below the knee, the calf from his right leg was missing, his pelvis had to be pinned and plated back together and there was a hole between his legs where the shrapnel had entered his body, severing his artery. To make matters worse, his left knee had also been shattered. Those first 3 years after the incident were, without doubt, some of the hardest days of his life. He says "it felt like everything I'd ever been good at had been taken from me".

Dan eventually recovered and, always looking for a challenge, took up skiing. In 2016, after time in the Foundation Team (where he competed in the British Championships) he moved up a grade to the Race Team and was advised to get his own ski rig which would improve his performance. Costing over £7000 it was going to be a tall order. However with the help of Huw Lewis the MD of MPCT and Steve Williams the Welfare Trustee for the Motivation & Learning Trust, the hunt for funds was gaining pace. With a donation from the MLT and many other organisations the money was found and the equipment was purchased. Dan was on his way!

In late 2017 Dan was selected to travel to South Korea to experience the 2018 Winter Paralympic games. This is where future Paralympians can experience the excitement and tensions of competition at the highest level. He benefited greatly from the experience, which he really enjoyed and it is planned that he competes in the 2022 Winter Paralympics in Beijing, China. That is now his focus for the future. Unfortunately Skiing is an expensive sport, and he is always looking for sponsors to help him achieve his dream of becoming a Paralympian in 2022.

He would like to take this opportunity to thank Huw Lewis, Steve Williams, and all his team for everything they have helped him with. Not just for the funding but also for helping to mould him into the man he is today. He'd also like to thank his partner Roslyn for putting up with him through good times and bad.

National Memorial Arboretum

In the autumn of 2016 The Motivation & Learning Trust sponsored a memorial to those 5 ex-MPCT Learners who had made the ultimate sacrifice whilst serving on Military Operations in Iraq and Afghanistan. A memorial plaque and a tree was purchased at the National Memorial Arboretum in Staffordshire and a date was set for the memorial service.

The charity funded the transportation of families and other attendees to the service and provided refreshments. Representatives from The Royal Welsh, The Welsh Guards, The Parachute Regiment and The Corps of Royal Engineers accompanied current MPCT Learners in paying their respects. The service was conducted by two serving military Padres. Regimental Associations had kindly provided their Standard bearers and a bugler played the last post. The ceremony was very moving and the families greatly appreciated the opportunity to recognise their loved one's sacrifice in this way.

The Charity continues to recognise the service and sacrifice of military personnel in the funding of Learner visits to the National Memorial Arboretum and on the organised trips to museums and battlefields. Prior to these visits, Learners will undertake comprehensive research and will give illustrated presentations to their peers on return.
